Spring Cleanup Planned For May

The GPNA will be holding the annual spring clean-up on Saturday May 21, 2011, in the Gifford Park parking lot north of 34th and Davenport, from 9:00AM to 2:00 PM. We will have vouchers available for tree limbs and brush. We will be accepting appliances, although there will be a nominal charge for appliances containing Freon. We will also be accepting tires for a small charge, but they must be dismounted from the rims. We will also have information available about a refrigerator recycling program sponsored by OPPD. If you have a working refrigerator, 10-32 cu. foot capacity that you no longer need, OPPD will have the refrigerator removed, free of charge, and send you a $35 rebate check. Further information will be available in the May newsletter.

From The President . . .

Walking through the neighborhood everyday provides me with a wonderful opportunity to enjoy the beauty of the neighborhood along with a stress-free commute. For those of you who don't know, I work at Mutual of Omaha and walk to and from work daily, taking different routes through the neighborhood. I know that I am not alone as I have met many neighbors that also walk and/or ride their bike to their place of employment. Being close to the ground and moving at a slow rate of speed, I also have the opportunity to notice some things that could be improved. The simple thing would be for every resident to pitch in and pick up trash that is left on sidewalks and the street curb. The more difficult improvement will be getting property owners to replace and/or repair broken and deteriorated sidewalks. This is where I believe we can come together as a neighborhood association to leverage our resources and buying power to improve sidewalks. I am currently working to identify reasonably priced resources that could help if you are a do-it-yourselfer. If you are one who likes to have someone else do the work, we are looking to coordinate contractors that would provide discounts for the neighborhood, since they would have multiple jobs within a short distance of each other. If you are interested in being part the neighborhood sidewalk improvement program, please indicate so on the membership form on the back of this newsletter or email me at lutherlar@cox.net. Please continue to provide me input as to what you would like to see the neighborhood association do for Gifford Park and remember to complete your membership form (if you have not already done so).

Greetings From The Garden

Welcome to the impending spring! All of us gardeners are chomping at the bit to begin gardening and get out there, but in Diane Kaye's wisdom, she reminds us that it is not wise to plant until May. Fear not; you can begin signing up for your garden plots soon. We hope to release the garden plot information to last year's plot owners by March 15th. A waiting list will be started for others interested in a plot. The garden has been through a remodel and we will be releasing this information at our garden opening. Some plot owners will need a new plot due to the remodel.

Due to an increase in fees by MUD, plot fees will be going up $10. The small plots will be $15 and the large plots will be $25. You also have to be a GPNA member to have a plot as the garden is a program of the GPNA. We also are exploring partnerships with some local restaurants including The Daily Grub and The Grey Plume to bring in some more revenue to the garden.

Please plan to attend our Gifford Park Garden Opening on Saturday, May 7th. More details to come. We also will have monthly Garden Parties. Your Gifford Park Community Garden Advisory Board is working hard for you. Who is on your Board? Joy Doll - Director, Diane Kaye - Treasurer, Chris Foster - Property Manager, Plot Coordinator - open, Children's Garden Coordinators - Dana Freeman and Sue Freeman.

Want to help? We always need volunteers! Please email Joy at joyot@juno.com

What's Happening In The Neighborhood . . .

Congratulations to GPNA member and resident Daniel Lawse for being selected as one of this year's Ten Outstanding Young Omahans. Daniel was honored by the Omaha Jaycees at a dinner January 26 at Qwest Center Omaha. The award, given since 1933, honors people between the ages of 21 and 40 who strive for excellence and have a strong commitment to community service and personal and professional development. Daniel is the coordinator of sustainable practices at Metropolitan Community College. He also is the founder of Omaha's first sustainability consulting firm, the Verdis Group, which helps organizations make true green decisions. His civic and professional affiliations include: Environment Omaha, Activate Omaha's Leadership Team, Omaha By Design's Livability Roundtable and the City of Omaha Transportation Master Planning Committee. He is a founding member of the Green Neighborhood Council and the Green Omaha Coalition. Daniel, along with his wife Andrea and daughter Adarin, are active with the GPNA and community garden. Thanks Daniel for helping our Gifford Park neighborhood be selected as this year's Omaha's "Greenest Neighborhood". Congratulations, Daniel!

Unfortunately there is no longer a local neighborhood site for free tax help formerly lead by GPNA member and volunteer Jackie Foster. Many thanks to Jackie for organizing volunteers for the past 16 years to provide this service. However, there are many sites in Omaha providing free tax help. AARP lists site

Outdoor Market Returns

The Gifford Park Business District will again be the place for this summer's open air market. Last summer we had people selling fruits and vegetables, t-shirts, jewelry, and flea market items. One individual who attended many of last summer's Friday evening markets referred to it as "Gifford Park's own French Street Market". We hope we can live up to those worldly standards again. Since we decided to continue it this summer, we've received interest from a variety of entrepreneurs along with a handful of local gardeners who want to sell their wares and produce. Similar to last year, the Neighborhood Association will pay for the peddler's permit and invited people to set up a table and tent during the designated market hours. There is no cost to the vendor but stall space will be limited. If you or someone you know is interested in participating please call Martin Janousek (402-558-4070) for more information.

Yates Community Center A Busy Place This Winter

Through the cold weather, Yates has remained busy with learning of all types! In addition to the five pre-K classrooms on the first floor, many adult refugees are active in programs ranging from life skills like sewing and reading to GED courses and citizenship education. Of note is a series of books published with support by Susan Mayberger in the native language of refugees. Being authored by refugees, the books are culturally relevant to newcomers. These books originating at Yates have been useful for the entire city, with several copies at library branches.

At the recent GPNA General Meeting, Susan described many of the programs at the school and led a tour of the building. Thanks, Susan, for your work at Yates which has filled a building with life and the excitement of learning!

Ed Osterhaus Honored At Holiday Banquet

Editor's Note: Due to space limitations, the following article was unable to be included in last month's newsletter with the other Holiday Banquet stories.

This year's Holiday Banquet was host to holiday revelry, fellowship, and affirmation of all things positive in our neighborhood. During the banquet Ed Osterhaus was recognized for his countless contributions to our neighborhood! Only a brief detail of Ed is noted below, but his smiles, stories, and personality shined even brighter when he addressed the Holiday Banquet crowd!

Ed's Bio:

- Ed Osterhaus, owned & operated American Printing located at 3229 California St. from 1968-2010.
- As a child Ed lived at 27th St. and Burt St. and at 28th St. and Capitol Avenue. He fondly remembers visiting the Circle Theater for Saturday morning serials, where he enjoyed western short films.
- Ed graduated from Technical High School in 1952, where he studied vocational printing, was involved in dance-band, golf, and was part of the Tech High news staff.
- Ed and his wife Sheila have 6 children and 20 grandchildren.

My connection to Ed: I met Ed one afternoon while walking home from Creighton. I knocked on his door and introduced myself. My curiosity had been growing ever since the first time I peeked through his windows. What I saw was a mechanical jungle and often times a gentleman with white hair diligently at work. Ed's vibe was encouraging and happy; smiles come easily to Ed. There in the jungle, I learned about furniture (not the type for your home), typeface, the old Linotype machine, and even how the molten reservoir of lead is kept at 540 °F. But most of all, I noticed Ed's mechanical competency and his work ethic. Ed's Jungle shop/ occupation/ career/ and income base ended in December 2009.

American Printing: The building was located in between California Tacos and the Shelterbelt Theatre. The building had operated as the Grass Shack Cafe up until the late 1960's, later purchased by Ed to become American Printing. Regarding business in our neighborhood, Ed mentioned that he found the location very convenient. He only experienced 2 minor incidents, both regarding panhandlers, but overall found there to be no challenges regarding location. At the Holiday Banquet, Ed's wife Sheila enjoyed a laugh while recalling stories of Ed telling stories to their children about a pet alligator in American Printing's basement!

Ed's contribution to our neighborhood: Honesty and ethical business practices were so important to Ed, always giving scrutiny to what he printed, never to promote libel or negativity. Also, in the early days of the GPNA, Ed printed our neighborhood newsletter and membership cards. He mentioned he never made much money, but in spite of this, his experience and contribution certainly affected our neighborhood.

On a lighter note: A post-it note above Ed's desk read, "An empty desk is the sign of an empty mind." I asked Ed if his kids enjoyed spending time at the shop...he said with a smile, "the kids would come down to get butter cookies from the bakery next door".

During the Holiday Banquet, Ed received a Christmas ornament in the shape of his printer's mark from American Printing longtime neighbor and master ornament maker Bob Hutton!

Last Summer's Visit of Tibetan Monks to Gifford Park

Gaden Shartse Monastery was founded in 1409 C.E. It is one of the three most renowned Tibetan Buddhist monasteries, with a deep emphasis on education. After the Chinese invasion of Tibet in the 1950's, the monks confronted great hardship to re-establish the monastery in a refugee community in India, where it now flourishes. For the past 20 years, Gaden Shartse monks have visited Omaha, where they have made many friends, as part of The Sacred Earth Healing Arts Tour, an international mission blessed by His Holiness The Fourteenth Dalai Lama, to promote peace, compassion, and tolerance, to preserve and share Tibet's cultural heritage through cultural exchange, and to raise funds to help support educational and medical needs of the monastery itself and the surrounding refugee community. And on August 7 of last summer, the monks visited Gifford Park!

Anyone passing the Green Space at 30th Street between Cass and Cottage Grove on that hot, dusty Saturday morning, would have seen a beautiful, refreshing vision! To the lovely sound of tinkling bells, and peaceful, deep-throated chanting, the monks—their maroon and saffron robes jewel-like upon the emerald grass—were seated cross-legged beneath the trees that swayed and whispered to delicious, cool breezes. The monks invoked the 21 Emanations of the female Buddha Green Tara to bless and protect the Green Space, the Neighborhood, the Earth, and all beings. It was lovely. Everyone who stopped by noticed that as soon as the monks were gone, the welcome breezes vanished with them, and the oppressive heat of the day resumed its sway!

The monks' visit was impromptu, and so unfortunately, there was no time to invite everyone. Next time, we'll plan in advance, so that the whole neighborhood can come! Thanks to friends Roxanne and Dan Wach, we do have wonderful photographs and even some video of the occasion.

The monks' tour has been hosted for many years by the Omaha Healing Arts Center in the Old Market. The monks are also scheduled to visit Creighton University's Asian World Center in September 2011, where, as always, they will present a variety of fascinating programs and colorful events giving Omahans an opportunity to experience Tibetan culture! To learn more about these summer visitors to Gifford Park, visit www.gadenshartsetour.org and www.gadenshartse.net

CBPO Update

I'm sure like a lot of people around Gifford Park right now, we here at the Community Bike Project are gearing up for spring—which can't come soon enough, as far as we're are concerned! We've been busy renovating the shop on 33rd and are also active around town, planning and running a variety of programs. Soon, we'll even be back on our regular schedule, with our "winter hours" behind us!

We've spent a lot of time cleaning up and organizing our shop at 525 North 33rd Street, getting ready for the busy season with the tremendous help of our terrific volunteers, old and new. Bike parts are sorted, piles are put away, lights have been added, some new energy-efficient windows have been installed, and a set of refurbished bikes are ready to get out the door. On top of all that, our generous landlords have allowed us to expand our operations to include half of the 2nd floor of the building, which we are quickly converting into a classroom/conference room and even an office.

One of the things we'll use the upstairs for is to hold adult classes on bike safety and urban riding—which we're organizing through Metropolitan Community College, and in cooperation with Omaha Bikes. There'll be more details soon: check out the next MCC mailer when you get it! We're also continuing our bike repair and mechanics classes at the shop, held every other Tuesday, where you can learn everything from changing a flat tire to rebuilding a bottom bracket. Check out the CBPO website for details.

Outside the shop, we've started teaching kids about bike safety, too, in a pilot project at Western Hills magnet school, in cooperation with Omaha Bikes. We've got 10 students from grades 4-6, and after 2 classes, I can say they seem to be enjoying it! We hope to expand this program in the future, so that more kids can learn about bike safety—whether they can come to classes at our shop or we go to them in the schools. And of course, we'll make sure that they all have access to bikes and helmets, too.

Lots more is in the works, too, but for now, I'll just finish by inviting you to our Spring Open House, Sunday, April 17th, from 11am-3pm. We hope you'll stop by, see what we've been doing with our shop, check out our fancy upstairs expansion, enjoy some refreshments, and hopefully a beautiful spring day, too!

Hello Neighbors!

Please mark your calendars for this fundraising event! On Friday March 18 Noodles & Company and Creighton University are hosting a fundraiser for YOUR new playground, coming soon! Creighton students have been working very hard on a project to replace the old structure at 35th and Davenport. The project that we named Operation Playground started last January, with a few Occupational Therapy, Physical Therapy, and Pharmacy students who wanted to do community service for the surrounding Omaha area. Operation Playground aims to create a positive partnership between Creighton and our Omaha neighbors, and to also promote service, community involvement, and healthy lifestyles for families and generations to come. For more information on this project, please contact Maria Doyle (mariadoyle@creighton.edu) to make a donation or to learn about upcoming events!

The delicious Noodles & Co. wants to help Gifford Park and Creighton to make Operation Playground possible. We will receive 25% of the profits! Please read the details below, and come out and support this project!

What? Operation Playground fundraiser...to raise money for the new playground

Where? Noodles & Company, located at 72nd and Dodge

When? Friday March 18 4:00pm-10:00pm

How? All you have to do is eat dinner* or place a carry-out order at Noodles & Co. between the above hours. Just mention "Operation Playground" to the cashier, and they will donate 25% of each purchase to the cause! Make SURE you say that you want your purchase to go towards OP...don't forget!

*There are plenty of vegetarian and fish options for those who will be observing Lent.

Thank you for your support! We hope to see you at Noodles on the 18th!

Sincerely,

The Operation Playground Team at Creighton
